SUPERVISORS ADOPT BUDGET FOR YEAR

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Dawn is the most beautiful part of the day.

And there are many, however, who arrive home at dawn, but don't appreciate its beauty.

Along the bay shore . . . especially near the quarry on the San Rafael ferry road . . . it is beautiful at daybreak.

The water of the bay, reflecting the lights of the Standard Oil wharf, ripples against the shore.

The dark bulk of a barge, anchored between shore and the wharf can dimly be seen.

The lights of the wharf gleam . . . two tankers . . . loading oils and gasoline . . . ride at anchor . . . their lights gleaming . . .

A river steamer . . . a mass of lights . . . passes down the bay . . .

There comes a faint grayness to the skies . . . dawn is coming . . . the night is fleeing . . .

Details about one become more distinct . . . the lazy flames of the bonfire take on a new hue . . .

The hills are turning gray . . . then purple . . .

The moon, which has been shining brightly, fades . . .

Now, to the right, you can see Mount Tamalpais . . . its head thrust above the fog bank . . .

The mountain is turning a pink—almost a Maxfield Parish pink . . .

The hills are turning a deep, beautiful purple . . .

The waters of the bay are now a light, glassy gray . . . as smooth as glass . . .

The air has the fresh smell of morning . . . salt . . .

Mount Tamalpais is slowly changing color . . . purple now . . . then almost a dark green . . .

Every detail of the Standard Oil wharf and the barge anchored in mid stream now stands out . . .

A dark, inquisitive head pokes out of the bay . . . then dives swiftly . . .

It's a seal . . . coming in to feed . . .

Then another dark head farther out in the bay . . . another seal . . .

Fish, of all colors and sizes rush frantically about . . .

A huge bass, in frantic fear, almost heaves itself upon the shore . . .

Closer and closer the seals come to the shore . . .

A rock, thrown with good aim, stirs the water near one of the largest seals.

The animal lifts its head, snorts, and dives . . . to be seen a few minutes later far out in the bay.

Seagulls now appear . . . overhead a flock of birds fly . . . greeting the dawn . . .

The sun is up . . .

And the gnats drive the on-lookers to their homes.

While 14,000 cases of the canned goods from the Filice and Perrelli cannery, situated a block away were being lowered into the hold leaders of the city government, the chamber of commerce, the Parr Richmond Terminal company and officials of the Luckenbach steamship company assembled at luncheon and discussed the present development and future possibilities of Richmond as a shipping and industrial center.

WOODMEN NINE WINS BALL GAME

Sargent, local chucker, won his own ball game for the Richmond Modern Woodmen of America nine Sunday afternoon over the Berkeley lodge when he hit a home-run in the last of the ninth inning. The final score was five to four in favor of the locals.

Both Sargent and Hansen pitched a fast game for their respective teams. Sargent baffled 11 batters, and Hansen fanned 10. Jester of Richmond and Murphy of Berkeley did the heavy hitting of the contest, both earning three bingles out of three times at bat. Gaillard, local second baseman, gathered a long triple, and Hood earned a two bagger.

The Richmond boys executed two clever doubles in Sunday's game. They were: Gaillard to Hood to Hansen, and Hood to Hansen.

The hectic contest was umpired by Collins, Spencer, and Watkins. The local Woodmen are now holding second place in the East-bay Woodmen's baseball league. Berkeley is still leading the circuit by one win.

Richmond will tangle with Elmhurst in next Sunday's Woodmen diamond competition.

Acorns Will Meet Stars This Week

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—The four first division teams in the Pacific Coast league, namely, Hollywood, Los Angeles, San Francisco Seals and the San Francisco Missions, will each play a second division team in this weeks series.

Hollywood leading the league, strengthened its hold on first place as a result of last weeks games, with the hapless Seattle Indians.

Their series this week, with the Oakland Oaks, cellar mates to the Indians should further strengthen it.

Los Angeles, in second place, will play the Beavers at Portland. Seattle will play at San Francisco and the Missions will furnish the opposition for the Sacramento Senators.

The only series of the week that promises any interest is the Sacramento-Missions games at Sacramento. The Missions are in fourth place and the Senators are one notch below them.

RICHMOND ELKS DEFEAT S. F. TEAM

Revenge is sweet! So said the Richmond Elks on returning to Richmond Sunday evening in possession of a 7 to 3 victory over their former conquerors, the San Francisco Elks.

The local lodgemen showed none of the mediocre playing Sunday that was the main cause for their loss of three straight games. They played clever baseball last week-end and the local hitters did plenty of damage, making eleven hits.

The San Francisco sluggers were held to eight hits by Bliss, who struck out four and walked one. Perotti did the chucking job for San Francisco and fanned five and walked three.

Bertoli of Richmond did the heavy hitting of the game, getting three hits out of five times at bat.

The Alameda league's leading Elks will be the opponents of the Richmond team next Sunday at Alameda.

RACE BETTING SHOWS BIG INCREASE

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Race betting—knowing no economic crisis—is booming, and estimates gathered by the United Press today from the centers this great gambling industry revealed a possible total of $450,000,000 in bets will change hands this year.

These millions, sufficient to cover more than half the estimated loss in the so-called "lost quarter billion" brought, are from the pockets of thousands of bettors—some small fry, some big plungers. Wall Street may have claimed its victims, small and large, but the race betting business with its facilities for placing from $1 up is flourishing, according to the United Press survey.

Particularly in New York State, the bookmakers are reporting better returns than ever. Apparently the universal desire to get something for nothing is emphasized in times when an individual's normal income declines.

The estimate of $450,000,000, which must remain a guess because of the impossibility of computing wagers placed with "bookies" away from the tracks, is based on the following figures:

Winter meetings in Louisiana and seasonal meetings in Ohio and West Virginia are:

West Virginia, $50,000,000.
Maryland, $70,000,000.
Illinois $65,000,000.
New York, $80,000,000.

Hand-books, not only on American but Canadian and Mexican tracks, $150,000,000.

As an indication of the probable accuracy of these estimates is the official report from Maryland that $54,419,867 was bet at the four mile-long tracks in that state in 1929, there are several half-mile tracks in the state to boost the total to near $70,000,000.

MOITTOZA FORDS WIN OVER BANKERS

The Moitoza Fords battled to another victory Sunday, conquering the Central Bank squad of Oakland by a score of 6 to 5.

The eighth inning presented plenty of spectacular playing and hitting on the part of the Fords, when they broke away from the bottom of the pile to jump into a one run lead.

Gregory, of the Fords, did the score, 5 to 5 with a long homer. Then Moitoza won the game with a convenient single.

Syd Martin checked his usual good game in spite of an injured throwing finger. Martin struck out eleven batters, and allowed two bases on balls and ten hits. Crossby started and McNabb finished the game for the Oaklanders. The two pitchers allowed the Moitozas 13 hits.

Wickesser, Gregory, Martin, Gray and Moitoza were the batting stars for the Fords Sunday. R. Freeman did the heavy hitting for the visitors.

COREY GARAGE NINE BEATS WILTON

The Corey Garagemen ran wild on the Wilton diamond Sunday when they swamped the Wilton Indians, 12 to 0.

The Coreys rolled around the bases in a most a continual procession to the dismay of the unfortunate Indians. The local sluggers tapped out a total of 13 hits.

"Lefty" Eight, besides pitching a sensational game, connected for two triples, one of which occurred with the bases loaded. The Corey distance hitters also hit six doubles, Davey and Bailey both reached second on the town hitting power, while Chokey and Korte hit one two bagger apiece.

"Lefty" Eight chucked a brand of baseball that completely outwitted the Wilton hitters. He allowed but four hits. Three of these hits were made by C. Storky, who wielded a hefty willow. The other was earned by his brother, V. Storky. Only one Wilton player reached second.

Eight struck out nine opposing batters, walking three. C. McLean, on the mound for Wilton, sent four Coreys to the bench and presented three free trips.

Following yesterday's batting spree, the Coreys now feel in the mood to tackle the Odd Fellows next Sunday. These two rivals of local diamonds will meet at San J. Pinto at 2:30 o'clock.

The Coreys and Odd Fellows each boast one victory over each other. The Odd Fellows have defeated the Coreys, 4 to 2, while the Coreys conquered the lodgemen by a score of 9 to 5. A thrilling contest should occur next Sunday at San Pablo, considering the quality and the records of both aggregations concerned.

Married Men Lose Ball Game

The married men of the El Cerrito fire department were defeated for the second time by the single firemen in a fast baseball game Sunday. The final score was six to two.

However, the married athletes are not yet convinced that they aren't equals with the bachelors on a baseball field, and they have challenged the unmarried men to yet another battle. The two-time victors have accepted the challenge. The game will be played next Sunday morning at El Cerrito.

In addition to the scenery and costumes destroyed in the fire, equipment valued at $5000 also was destroyed.

WILL ROGERS AT CALIFORNIA THEATER
One of the most entertaining audible pictures of the past season was "They Had to See Paris." Will Rogers' first starring picture for Fox Movietone.
When Rogers started production on his second, "So This Is London," it is said that Fox executives expressed the hope that his second picture would be as entertaining as his first.
The second was "So This Is London," now showing at the Fox-California theater today and tomorrow.
Theater and the consensus of opinion is that it has far surpassed the first production.
Based on the successful stage play of the same title produced a decade ago by George M. Cohan, the screen version is far more entertaining than the stage play.
Rogers is perfect in his portrayal of a wealthy owner of a cotton mill in Texas. He has decided views regarding the English, but when he is compelled to go to London on business he finds that many Britons have exaggerated ideas of the Americans.
How this little thing is ironed out and peace reigns and also a better understanding is delightful. Enacted on the screen, Irene Rich as Rogers' wife and Frank Albertson as his son and Maurice O'Sullivan, who made her first screen appearance in "Song O' My Heart," are prominent in featured roles with Lumsden Hare, Mary Forbes, Bramwell Fletcher, Dorothy Christy and others in decided important roles. "So This Is London" is another directorial achievement of John G. Blystone.
Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled "Chumps."

News of her safety wiped out grim looks on the five other aviators who attended a banquet in their honor. United Press dispatches brought the first news of the flier's safety immediately, the flash was broadcast by radio and much relieving took place.
Harold P. Luesch, manager of the derby, soon after receiving the report left for a night of exclusion at an unnamed place.
Miss Barron, just west 40 years old, left Calexico, Calif., the noon stop of today's lap at 2:12.

NEW FILM AT RICHMOND THEATER
Believing the picture-going public is well satisfied with the rapid singing, dancing, buff-stuff and underworld talkies presented during the past several months, Windsor Picture Plays, Inc., a well known producing organization, has been one of the first movie makers to turn out a totally different talkie in their special feature, "Her Unborn Child" which the Richmond theater will present for an extended engagement of three days.
Produced with a cast which numbers among its ranks some of the best known players of the legitimate stage and directed by Albert Ray at the De Forest Phonofilm Studios in New York, "Her Unborn Child" offers one of the strongest stories ever selected for talking picture purposes. Treating in purely entertainment fashion with an unusual and powerful subject, this picture provides the most powerful dramatic talkie fodder the screen of the country has held in many a day. Delicately, even beautifully handled through competent direction and a superb cast of finished artists, "Her Unborn Child" carries a note of human appeal seldom achieved on stage or screen.
The talking picture version has been adapted from the stage play of the same name, a play which took theater-going audiences by storm during its continued presentation for more than ten years in the leading legitimate houses in every important city in the United States and Canada. In many instances the stage play broke all existing box office records and was brought back for extended return engagements.
The Richmond theater considers "Her Unborn Child" one of the most unusual talking pictures it has presented for public approval in several months, but not only to its unusual story, but its smashing dramatic power, its tremendous humaneness and its particular timeliness.

FELON DIES IN DRINK ORGY AT QUENTIN

SAN QUENTIN, Aug. 18.—One convict is dead today and three others are in the prison hospital in a precarious condition as the result of an alleged drinking orgy in the prison press room with wood alcohol serving as the "liquor" in the fatal bout.

The dead man is Charles Brown, assistant editor on the San Quentin Bulletin, a prisoner's publication, and was considered a brilliant writer. He was serving a term of five years to life for a San Francisco robbery.

Those in the hospital are: Joe Mackin, 29 serving a 15 year sentence for robbery from Los Angeles, said to be dying; George Cassel, 28 serving five years to life for robbery from Los Angeles and John Lawler, 31, a lifer, sent up for first degree murder from San Francisco.

According to Warden James B. Holohan, the wood alcohol imbibed by the convicts is issued sparingly for use in cleaning typewriters, and the men evidently hoarded it to "go on a drunk."

First evidence of the "drunk" was discovered last night when Brown collapsed, deathly ill, in his cell. He was removed to the prison hospital where he died this morning without regaining consciousness.

It was only a short time later that Mackin and Cassel also collapsed.

Cassel recovered consciousness long enough to give his version of what happened.

"Brown gave us the stuff," he gasped. "He said to test it by lighting a match to it. If it burned blue it was pure grain alcohol, and if it burned yellow it was wood alcohol."

"It burned blue," Cassel gasped and sank back unconscious.

Lawler did not collapse until this morning, when partial blindness and paralysis overcame him.

Mackin is blind and cannot live, doctors say, and Cassel is suffering from "lake paralysis" and is in a critical condition.

Debris Removed From Mine Blast

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 18.—UP—The work of removing debris from the main shaft of mine No. 4 of the Coalmont Collieries at Blakeburn went ahead again today after successfully sealing the slope in which a fire had been burning.

RAIN STORMS END LONG DROUGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—UP—General rains in the last 46 hours have ended the $750,000,000 drought of 1930 in all dry areas except western Tennessee and a few other isolated sections, the weather bureau reported today.

The corn belt has been drenched with water, the report said, and some of the late crops may be saved.

The southern section of Illinois for instance, where the drought loss has been officially estimated at $200,000,000, has received three-quarters of an inch of rain since Thursday. The rain was valued at $250,000 about Peoria alone. University of Illinois farm experts place the average loss of each farmer in this section, south to the state line, at $1,500.

Memphis and surrounding territory has been without rain for 29 days, and the situation there is critical. Rains fell Sunday in parts of western Tennessee, eastern Arkansas and northern Mississippi, but circled Memphis.

The Thermostat control gives you the most economical heating cost. It is the only way to properly heat your home.

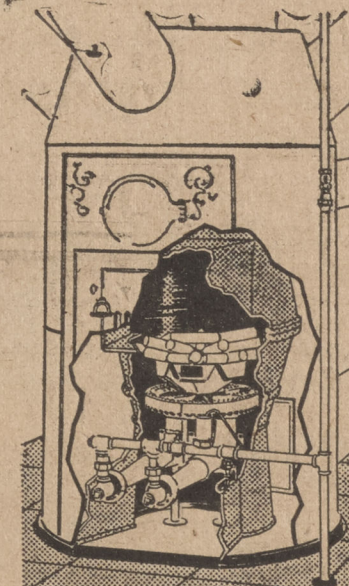

Down to the basement in slippers—to shake down ashes, to fire the furnace.

Next door they snooze a half hour longer and touch a Thermostat for heat. They've changed their furnace to burn Natural Gas. For Natural Gas costs LESS to use than any other fuel. In addition, it supplies clean, automatic heating.

And now is a good time to change your furnace to burn Natural Gas. The change-over is very inexpensive. In fact, it costs one-third to one-tenth as much as any other automatic heating. That's because we merely install the silent Occidental Conversion Burner in the firebox of your present furnace. It has no moving parts to wear out. We mount a Thermostat on the wall of your living-room.

Then you enjoy a new feeling of cleanliness, from the neat basement to the attic. For there is no dirt and soot.

HELEN MARING.

Life Is More Than Love

EVERETT DAVIS, a fifteen-year-old Long Island boy, flung himself under a train a few days ago because he had seen another boy sitting on the porch with the girl whom Everett liked to call his sweetheart.

"Tell her," he had written, with the awful finality of young despair, "that I died because I could not have her." On every front page the story of this suicide appeared. It had unique news value in that it was a case of a young man (pathetically young) killing himself for love. Girls from fifteen to fifty do this often—too often. Their stories, however tragic, lack both for the city editor and the general reader, the element of surprise which put big headlines on the case of poor Everett Davis. Moreover, too many members of our sex, who may not try to kill themselves for love, nevertheless think and act as if they had had no reason for living because a love affair goes wrong.

Nobody who reads this column can accuse us of underestimating the value of romantic love. Nevertheless, and Byron to the contrary notwithstanding, we do not think that it should constitute "woman's whole existence." We do think that, if being a woman of today means anything at all, it means being a person so important, having a life so full and varied, that no one disaster—even a heartbreak—can wipe out everything else.

Women, as a wise woman novelist once said to us, must learn to take their jiltings like men. Of course the woman who cures for a man after he has stopped caring for her is going to have an unhappy time—there's no same in kidding her that she won't. But, nowadays, the cult of blighted affection is as much out of date as the cult of witchcraft. To pursue a self-control for more than the briefest possible space because he has the bad taste to prefer another, to let love unrequited sap one's courage, self-control, the cult of blighted affection, is to be a failure as a modern woman, for whom life should conform to the geometrical truth that the whole is greater than any of its parts.

WHY, you ask, should the intelligent modern woman conquer unhappy love, instead of letting it conquer her? Because today she has what men have always had—the means to conquer it. First on her list of weapons is interesting and profitable work.

The woman with a real job will not escape unhappiness altogether if her love affair goes wrong. But—once more to resort to geometry—two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time and neither can two thoughts. If a woman has to think hard and clearly about the paid work which earns her living, she cannot—no more to five, anyone—be wondering who's kissing him now. She can—just as men have always done—use work as an opiate for an aching heart, plunge into work as into a Lethe of forgetfulness. So many modern maidens of other days have done a thing in the world to do except BE lonely!

That unusually interesting new novel by a modern New York girl, Katharine Brody's West of Fifth, aptly illustrates our argument. Grace, the heroine, is involved in an unhappy affair and has been meeting Blake, her lover, daily for tea. She gets a

To Avoid Waste

You will be surprised how much you can reduce your gas bill just by turning off the gas before instead of after removing the cooking utensils.

Matches are cheaper than gas, so don't leave a burner lighted because you expect to use it again in a few minutes.

After the food being cooked reaches the boiling point, turn the gas or electricity down to where it will keep just at that stage. It will surprise you how low it need be.

Early in the season when green corn and lima beans are a novelty we are so delighted with these crisp, flavorful vegetables that the simplest cooking suffices to prepare them for our tables. A little boiling water, a little salt, a short period of cooking and some butter are all that is required to prepare a vegetable course par excellence. But later in the season we demand something more than that: the best of fresh vegetables have become commonplace and we want something a little different.

Ordinarily we look to the French, and with considerable admiration too, when we want new ways of cooking staple foods or new combinations of flavors.

But those who have lived in France, or who have dined at typical French homes in this country, know what to expect of them in the way of vegetable dishes. Not that they don't look on vegetables as important; on the contrary, they not only cook them with consummate skill, they give them such importance that a few string beans or a bit of asparagus appear as a separate course. It is our own country, where the leading toward vegetarianism is strongest, that has developed the vegetable dinner, which comprises the whole main course of a meal and the vegetable casserole, which, with a small serving of meat or fish, provides a main course rich in vitamins and nourishment.

The following combination is a favorite out in the farming country of the Middle West. Long, slow cooking gives the vegetables their delicious, blended flavor.

VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

3 tomatoes
2 cups corn, raw, cut from cob
1 cup lima beans, raw
1 green pepper, cut in strips
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup water

Lina the bottom of a shallow casserole with thin slices of tomato. Sprinkle liberally with salt, and dot with pieces of butter. Mix the corn and beans together, or put a mound of corn in the center with a border of lima beans around it. Add the remaining salt, butter, pepper and water. Bake in moderate oven for about fifty minutes, or until beans are tender.

EVEN AS YOU AND I

TWO weeks rest; or, the diary of a summer girl:
MONDAY—Arrived at Whizack Beach this morning. Took an hour to unpack, then out on the beach. Played leapfrog a couple of hours. Went in water and swam out to raft seven times. Had hot dogs for lunch and lay on beach all afternoon in my new one-piece. Danced till 1 A. M. at pavilion. Tried to get to sleep, but up till 4.30 A. M. with my sunburn.

TUESDAY—Didn't dare go in water with my sunburn, so took it easy all morning. Riding on roller coaster. Played tennis all afternoon and went to bridge party at night. Turned in at 2 A. M., but spent three-quarters of an hour putting ointment on arms and back. And legs.

WEDNESDAY—Up at 4.30 A. M. for sunrise bathing party. Had breakfast at 7 and went out on fishing trip. Got back in time for some horseback riding before dinner. Went to dance and then out with a lovely fellow to cool off. Rather strenuous necking unpooled a lot of sunburn on my back. When I undressed at 2.15 A. M. I had two packages of cornflakes in my armpits. Got to bed at 3 A. M. after reading Zippy Stories. Am falling behind on my reading.

THURSDAY—Same as Monday, only twice as much gin.
FRIDAY—Feeling a little tired, but managed to practice diving a couple of hours. Was planning to rest this afternoon, but couldn't resist thirty-six holes of golf with a handsome fellow. Went to dance this evening and stayed out till 1.30 A. M. polishing off a flask. Seemed good to get to bed so early.

SATURDAY—Nothing much to do except go bathing, attend cocktail party, get in a little tennis and go to dance tonight. Must get in some rest next week.

SUNDAY—Spent a quiet day horseback riding with a fellow. Pretended I knew all about riding, so had to go eight miles with him over the moors. Plenty sore just south of my backbone, so only played bridge this afternoon and evening. Something was wrong with those highballs. Didn't get to bed till 3 A. M. and I was up every half hour till dawn. Think I'll rest in bed tomorrow morning.

MONDAY—Lovely day. Got up at 8 A. M. and played tennis, thinking it would do my headache some good. Felt pretty low after six sets, so let a fellow give me a pick-me-up. Showed lots of improvement after several of these. Don't know what I did all afternoon, but from the way my head feels, must have spent it on a merry-go-round. Necking till 3.15 A. M., but didn't feel any better for it.

TUESDAY—Same as Thursday except Canadian ale instead of gin.

Repression

"RUM, tum, tum!" Little Frank was marching up and down the room, drumming with all his might. "Oh," sighed Grandma, who was visiting "Tum, tum!" Fast and furious came the taps. "Do you mind asking Frank to do that on the porch?" Grandma implored Mother. "I have a splitting headache."

"I'm awfully sorry," answered Mother, with a worried look. "It's very bad for children to repress them. I'll stop after a while."

Repression is bad for children undoubtedly. But so is allowing them to override the feelings and conveniences of others. Just what do we mean by repression? Would Frank have been "repressed" if he had been asked to consider his Grandma's feelings and take his drum outside or else to substitute a less noisy toy? I don't think so. Giving up one's own plans occasionally for another's comfort will never do a child harm. Hand in hand with the necessity of expressing one's own individuality goes the need of learning to consider the rights of others.

Jimmy Rodgers, on the other hand, was a "repressed" child. His mother, who lived with the family, detested noise of any kind. If Jimmy whistled or ran briskly, or even talked loudly, some one was sure to whisper, "What a noisy child!" All day long, he was quiet. He could not live a natural child's life. In this family, the needs of the child were being considered too little. Although it is often very difficult in cases such as these some adjustment must be made, if the young one is to develop into a normal and happy adult.

The youngster with an autocratic parent, who is continually laying down the law, continually interfering with his plans and pursuits, continually punishing—that poor child is usually very much depressed. He is afraid to call his soul his own, afraid to do anything on his own initiative! Children need free to experiment, to express their own visions and ideas, and to go ahead with their projects with a minimum of adult interference. We need never fear, however, that teaching the child to respect the rights of others, as well as his own, will repress him!

So, despite Griff's scepticism, it was arranged. The trio planned that when Griff beat his way through the jungle, Marie would meet him at the shore with a motorboat which would take them both to the Portuguese fishing boats a few miles out, and so to eventual freedom. Marie, vowing with Griff to live or die with him, came what might, sought to express her halting gratitude to Mac just before the break. It was then that she discovered a phase of the situation she had not guessed. Nervous at the impending peril, she noticed him bite out the lead from a cartridge in his rifle, try to fit in its place a pellet taken from his trousers—a slug she had seen before at the hospital. When she asked him for perate hope that he might yet pull Griff through. Sending Bert off to divert the guards from Griff's trail, he released Marie, gave her the keys to the motorboat, and bade her make a desperate dash for the fugitive. Mac himself set out with irresistible strides toward the spot where he knew Griff would emerge from the jungle.

He overtook Griff on the beach, while he could faintly hear the far-away thrum of the pursuing keepers plunging through the jungle led by Bert. The panting fugitive, seeing him, seized a club and started toward Mac with vindictive recklessness.

"You framed all this," he roared, "to get a chance to take a shot at me without taking the rap for it!"

"I'm here to help you, you fool!"

Marie: And I'm tellin' you now I ain't kidding—I was sucker enough to introduce you to her the meaning of this, Mac said stonily:

"They told me at headquarters that you've got to shoot escaping prisoners—in the back. I'm particular—I've got to have a special bullet. Here it is—the only two-way bullet ever made."

Marie protested, appalled. "Mac—you promised to help him escape!"

REPORT MADE

There is a cash balance on hand in the city treasury of $230,536.04 according to a report filed with the council at its meeting last evening.

MOONEY ALIBI SUPPORTED BY STORY

an active protagonist of pardon for the convicted men, occupied the stand for nearly three hours.

Undirect examination by Edwin V. Mackenzie, Billings' attorney, Older reiterated his belief in the innocence of both men, but made a concession many adherents of the two men have refused to make. He declared that he did not believe they were deliberately "framed" by the prosecution. In the prevalent hysteria, Older said, he thought the actions of the prosecution were rather hasty rather than deliberately corrupt.

Under cross-examination by Associate Justice John W. Preston, Older's replies at times were sharp. At one time, when Preston asked if Older were still convinced of the women's innocence, Older retorted:

Older Questioned

"Yes, and I think you are too," Preston turned the remark away with a joke.

Preston asked Older if he did not feel largely responsible for worldwide dissemination of the opinion that the men were convicted by corrupt officials. While acknowledging partial responsibility, Older said that had not the case been so bitterly fought it never would have been reopened.

Preston also asked if Older, whose writings prior to the outrage were considered radical in many quarters, did not feel that he was in a measure responsible for the blast itself.

This Older denied, declaring that his opposition to America's entrance into the World War had never been couched in terms of violence.

Older joined Maxwell McNutt, one-time attorney for Billings, in the belief that the bombing was the work of foreigners bent upon forestalling the American entrance into the war by terrorism.

Chief Justice Waste, who previously had expressed the hope that the hearing would be concluded tomorrow, gave no indication at the close of today's session that the hope would be realized. Older will undergo examination, and there are still more witnesses to be heard.

Billings and Mooney are serving 4 and 13 years respectively for perpetration of the outrage. Mooney had a separate application, pending before Governor C. C. Young. Under California law, Billings, a two-time felon, cannot appeal to the Governor without a recommendation from the supreme court.

High Spirits

As the fliers leaped from their planes, they leaped from photographers, and all seemed to be in high spirits.

Gov. John C. Phillips, of Arizona, an aviation enthusiast, greeted the aviatrices at a banquet tonight. The reception was followed by a ball. Lap prizes and other awards given by Phoenix merchants were presented the women.

Similar receptions will be accorded the race entrants at Tucson and Douglas. At the latter city, several women's organizations have prepared and entertainment at Agri Prieta, Sonora, Mex., just across the border.

Hop Today

The women will hop off from here at 10 a. m. (Mst) Tuesday for Tucson, where they will make a noon-day stop, leaving Tucson at 2:30 p. m., the race entrants will fly to Douglas for the third overnight stop of the flight. The departure from Douglas is scheduled for 8:30 a. m. (Mst) Wednesday, with their next goal Lordsburg, N. M.

Jean La Rene, of Chicago, landed third. Her elapsed time was 3:06:37. Mildred Morgan, of Beverly Hills, was fourth. Miss Morgan's elapsed time was 2:50:22.

More than 3000 Phoenixians braved a temperature of 105 degrees to greet the fliers. Their cheering deafened the humbling of plane motors.

Barren Deserts

The distance covered between here and Calexico was over barren desert wastes, dotted with giant cacti and other growth.

Bride Dies In Window Leap

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—UP—Mrs. Helene Hoge, 30, a bride of less than two months, ended her life last night when she leaped from the bedroom window of her apartment at 1745 Pacific avenue, according to police.

Her husband, J. Hampton Hoge, San Francisco attorney, was at loss to explain his wife's act beyond telling authorities she had been suffering from a nervous disorder. At the time of the casualty he was in Pebble Beach, where he visited over the weekend.

The couple were married less than two months ago, and had just completed their honeymoon.

Hoge declared they had never quarreled.

Hearse Used As Chicken Roast

POMEROY—UP—Philip Folmer, Meigs county farmer, has a hearse for a hen roost. His theory is that the normal chicken thief has a fear of "spooks" that are supposed to haunt a hearse, and this fear may be strong enough to ruin his appetite for fried chicken.

POULTRY LAW IN EL CERRITO PROTESTED

Two petitions containing over 180 signatures filed with the council of El Cerrito at its meeting Monday night protesting the second reading and adoption of the poultry ordinance resulted in the council laying the ordinance over indefinitely. The motion was made by Councilman Peter Larsen.

The ordinance provided that no poultry yards in the city could keep over 50 fowls except those poultry yards already in existence, and that any that ceased to operate for a period of 180 days could not start in operation again unless over 500 feet from any dwelling.

Discussion of the feasibility of zoning of the city and adopting ordinance will be held the latter part of this month when a meeting will be arranged between the city council and Dr. C. Aronovici, city planning expert.

Dr. Aronovici who appeared before the council stated that the cost of his services would be $500.

A communication from the Pacific Bonding company, stating that if the city did not pay the street assessment on the park in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract, amounting to over $2400, foreclosure proceeding would be started. The matter was referred to City Attorney T. H. DeLap.

Last Monday night, on the report of DeLap, the council went on record as refusing to pay the assessment.

Receipt of $371 for street repair work done by the city over a year ago from the California Construction company was acknowledged by the council.

Mary E. Curtin, deputy assessor, was granted a two weeks vacation starting August 20.

Traffic Officer Howard A. Thulin was also granted a vacation starting September 1.

Report of Police Commissioner Hans M. Nissen that it would cost about $331 to paint the walls, install electric lights and new beds in the jail was laid over until the fall tax collections were made.

Suggestion of Councilman Peter Larsen that the city put a roadway into the back of the postoffice for the mail truck in order to give additional parking space on San Pablo avenue near Fairmont was referred to Larsen. He is to get permission from the property owners for the city to put in the roadway.

Councilman Phil A. Lee reported that he investigated the grain weevil nuisance on Norvell street and a firm was coming from San Francisco to exterminate the pests this week.

Application of the Safeway Stores Inc., 206 San Pablo avenue for a soft drink permit was granted by the council.

Police Judge A. G. Thompson reported fines collected during July for violation of city ordinances totaled $355 and for motor vehicle violations totaled $1614.

Building permits totaling $6650 were issued during July according to the report of City Building Inspector D. A. Arnesen.

Tax Collector R. R. Cheek reported collections for July of $265.

City Treasurer Cora J. M. Simonson reported the following balances on hand August 1. Street improvement fund, $4,068.19; fire bond fund, $2,712.54 and general fund, $7,516.72.

City Attorney T. H. DeLap was instructed to have the new truck for the street department properly insured.

Lions Scout Troop Here Reorganized

Re-organization of the Lions club Boy Scout troop committee was effected at a meeting of the group at the Scout headquarters last night.

George Upham was made chairman of the committee which is composed of W. A. Hislop, Al Nystrom, Dr. George Boehmer and Carl Overad.

The first big event for the troop will be a swimming meet at Crockett tonight with the Scout troop sponsored by that city's Lion club. The boys will be accompanied by their parents, and members of the club tonight.

Plans were also made last night for observation of Parents night to be held in the Grant school, Sept. 18. At this time the boys will do stunts, play games and enjoy refreshments. A troop out of honor will also be held on this night.

During this week, W. A. Hislop will confer with the Scoutmaster W. E. Watrous, and patrol leaders of Troop 10 to plan the program and objectives for the next six months according to an announcement last night.

Endurance Hop Fliers Downed

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 18.—UP—The attempt of the three Rankin brothers to set a new world record for a refueling endurance flight ended at 1:20 p. m. today after they had been in the air more than 23 hours.

The plane "On-to-Oregon" ran out of gasoline and could not locate its refueling ship in the hazy sky. The brothers, Tex, Dud and Dick said they would try again tomorrow.

THE ROBOT SINGS OF LOVE

THE ROBOT (singing) "O, soul of my soul, I love thee—"

BUT the Robot has no soul. And having no soul it cannot love. Small wonder the lady spurns its suit.

Now, if the Robot cuts a ridiculous figure beneath a lady's balcony, why expect it to thrill intelligent theatre goers in the character of Canned Music?

Music is an emotional art. By means of it feeling may be translated into all tongues. The Robot, having no capacity for feeling, cannot produce music in a true sense.
